

Hey,

So yeah not a whole lot going on here, but I have gotten my book for my surface warfare pin signed off completely which is always a good thing. Now all I have to do is go take the test and board and then I will be surface warfare qualified. Other than that I really don't have anything going on unfortunately. I have gotten a little bit lonelier as of late for some reason which isn't good, but it's not something I can exactly help either you know? I don't know why it has been that way lately, but it just seems different the past few days.

Other than that my stomach hurts right now because I did not get to eat dinner last night or breakfast this morning. I need to do laundry again too because I am almost out of white shirts :P That is always the first thing that I run out of for some reason. We are finally where we are supposed to be though which is a good thing because hopefully things will pick up and there will not be as much down time around here. Usually down time is not a good thing because it starts making you think about things you shouldn't or you just ponder about things too much. ::Shrugs::

Things aren't going too bad so please do not think that I am saying I am severely depressed or anything because that's not the case. Just have my good days and my bad days you know? Well just working on studying for ESWS and my E-5 exam now. So pretty much it's a boring time right now for me since it's working and then studying and then to bed. Rinse and repeat each day after that and you would have my daily schedule.

I sent some stuff back to GA from my rack so that I could get some more free room in my rack and I have to do the same again today. Some of the stuff I sent back was gifts and trinkets while the rest was extra journals and things that I would not use out here, like my external hard drive. Well as I said before, it's pretty boring and humdrum out here. This is why I normally do not send an e-mail out until I receive a response because nothing usually changes. :P

Anyway as I said before, not much is going on, just trying to get through the deployment one day at a time. I appreciate you sending out more of those Haystacks as well mom and I am sure that SSES will be very appreciative as well. Anyway feel free to write me back and I will try to call you guys again sometime soon. Miss you all and I love you.

With Love,
